Shipwreck - La Belle

The 17th century French shipwreck La Belle is one of the most significant stories in early Texas history. Explorer René-Robert Cavalier, Sieur de La Salle, set sail for the Mississippi River in 1684 to claim new territory for France. The ship instead sailed into Matagorda Bay, only to sink in 1686. Found 300 years later, an extraordinary excavation and preservation began in 1995. La Belle is the center of the first-floor exhibition "La Belle: The Ship That Changed History."
